

Use Three

Write a program that accepts exactly three names as command-line arguments and prints a sentence that includes these names in reverse order. If the program receives fewer or more than three names, its behavior is undefined.

For example, if the program is run with the arguments "Alice Bob Carol", it should output: "Hi Carol, Bob, and Alice."

Input:

Alice Bob Carol

Output:

Hi Carol, Bob, and Alice.